WHY SMITH LEFT HOME....

Because he could live better, cheaper, with better health and less annoyance than he could at home. "Within one day's ride of El Paso" he read in the daily paper the next day found him at Mineral Wells, the famous Health and Summer Resort, with hotels offering unexceptionable accommodations at reasonable rates, picturesque summer cottages within reach of everybody's purse, health-giving waters, and happy environs. "All summer excursion rates via T. & P.," read those at home, and they follow Mr. Smith.

TROUT FARMING REMUNERATIVE

A Good Opening in White Mountains to Start Hatchery.

AN INTERESTING STUDY

Culture Requires Intelligence and Watchfulness.—Trout Must be Kept in Dark Places.—A Hatchery Fifty Feet Long Will Hold Five Million Eggs.

The old paths of business have become so overcrowded that it may be interesting to some to hear of new avenues for productive industries in their own locality. We are all to a large degree imitative, and never ready to follow beaten paths; but the pioneer and builder in new and useful fields of endeavor is the true helper and benefactor to mankind, and has the opportunity to establish a lucrative business for himself.

There is a chance for some enterprising person to start a trout farm on one of the streams in the White Mountain near which the extension of the El Paso & Northeastern railroad is being built. There are several streams there including the Ruidosa, Bonito, and Eagle creeks, which by the fact that they afford good sport to the angler, is sufficient proof of their suitability for trout farming. Trout fetches fifty cents a pound in El Paso and the demand is great, and will be still greater as the town increases in size as it is rapidly doing. By obtaining the concession of one of the streams and stocking it for angling would also prove remunerative, as visitors to those parts are sure to be numerous in the near future.

The culture of trout forms an interesting study and requires intelligence, watchfulness and constant labor. First of all a hatchery has to be built. The eggs are placed in trays whose sides and bottoms are made of wire netting, with meshes close enough to prevent the eggs from falling through. These trays are laid in the troughs in the hatchery, twelve hundred eggs in each tray. Here water of about 40 degrees temperature flows with a movement too slight to disturb them.

The trough is carefully covered up, so it is essential to exclude the light. Here the little eggs remain for a period of fifty days before the fish are hatched. At first it is little larger than a pin, but has attached to it a sack of nutriment upon which it lives for six weeks, during which time it is still kept in darkness. They then see the light and are fed several times a day. The principal food is pulverized liver, which in a semi-liquid form is sprayed upon the water. As they become larger they are moved to the ponds in the creek, fed on liver and mush and caught by nets as required.

When the season approaches for spawning the trout of one year and older are lifted by nets and placed in tubs. Here they are sorted, and the females about to spawn are taken in hand and by a gentle pressure of the fingers down the body of the fish, relieves it of its eggs. The male fish is then taken in turn, and by the same method is relieved of its fertilizing milt, and the eggs are ready for hatching.

A hatchery of fifty feet in length and thirty feet wide will hold five million eggs in its troughs.

Three Hundred Dollars To Be Given In Purses.

No definite arrangements have been completed for a Fourth of July celebration, but a series of races at Washington Park will be one of the features of the day. Three hundred dollars has been subscribed to be divided into three purses of one hundred dollars each.

The first race will be a free for all trot, second, three minute trot or pace, third free for all pace. Each race will be best two in three mile heats. All entries close July 1st, and the entrance fee of five per cent must be paid that day. All horses to enter for second purse must have been eligible to the three minute class since the first of the year.

The rules of the American association will govern. The purses will be divided $50, $25, $15 and $10 to go to the first four horses and the association reserves the right to declare and return payment in any purse that does not fill satisfactorily.

The El Paso Mission.

On Sunday next there will be a children's service at 11 o'clock, when the children of the Sunday school will sing and recite pieces appropriate for the occasion.

A cordial invitation is issued to the friends of the mission to attend that service as it will be one of the most interesting services ever held in this city.

At night the Rev. W. W. Hopper of Mississippi will commence an eight days' mission. Christian friends of all denominations are requested to assist in these services.

I am trying to secure the tent, which the Rev. C. C. Edington used in his district work, and after Bro. Hopper has left us, I hope to be able to continue the tent services indefinitely and shall be grateful for the assistance of all those who desire to aid in the preaching of the gospel.

If any kind friends who have musical ability, and can play on an instrument, or sing in the choir, will come to our aid in making these services bright and attractive it will be much appreciated. W. S. HUGGETT.

Cloudcroft Opens.

Cloudcroft, the popular summer resort, will open for business on Friday, June 16th.

Col. Harvey will have charge of the culinary department and will serve an elegant breakfast at which delicious mountain trout will be the main feature.

The Ruby Saloon will receive by direct wire the report of the Fitzsimmons-Jeffries fight June 9th, 1899.

WHITE OAKS COUNTRY.

Rapid Development Along the Line Of the Mountain Railway Route.

Alamogordo, N. M., June 4.—(To the Dallas News.)—Matters are moving along at a lively gait in this section of New Mexico. Present indications in Otero county show a very rapid development of local resources and a very large increase of population.

Construction on the extension of the White Oaks route is being pushed forward with all possible speed. Coal mining machinery is being rushed forward to Salado by wagon, so as to have it ready for use when the railway reaches that point. The Alamogordo and Sacramento Mountain branch now brings in two trainloads of saw logs per day, and upon the completion of the second mill now in construction, the haul of the saw timber will be doubled, if not quadrupled.

This mountain railway is now open for travel, and on the summit of Sacramento mountain a great summer pavilion, for the use of large conventions, meetings, etc., of professional and other societies has been erected. It is a building capable of providing meals for 500 people or entertaining 1000. The Texas-New Mexico Chautauqua will be held here.

The scenery of this region is varied and beautiful. After traversing the picturesque Pecos canyon for a distance of about seven miles an altitude of 9000 feet is reached, and here, in a fern-grown, towering forest of pines and firs, near fine springs, the Chautauqua grounds are situated.

The agricultural resources of the mountain region are being rapidly developed. Farmers from Colorado, Kansas and Texas, attracted by the large acreage of government land still open for settlement, are coming in from all directions, using their teams overland. The mineral resources are receiving then attention they deserve. The mountains are full of prospectors, and good properties are changing hands daily. The Jarilla mountains in point of development are now making rapid progress. There is a camp there of 500 people, and large shipments of ore are being made every day or two. One shipment consisted of thirteen carloads of copper and gold ore, some of which ran as high as $90 in gold per ton, and 12 to 20 per cent in copper. High grade copper ore is also being shipped from Alamo, canyon, some six or seven miles east of Alamogordo, N. M.

The Jarilla camp is situated in a group of comparatively low mountains, fifty miles north of El Paso, on a short branch line of the White Oaks route. This country has been prospected for more than a quarter of a century, and was at one time believed to be extremely rich in silver. The difficulty in getting water and supplies into these mountains in the early days however, made mining at a profit impracticable. The building of the railway into the heart of these mountains has changed all of this, and now every part is readily accessible.

In 1898 the Jarilla camp became more favorably known for its gold and copper-producing capabilities, and on these lines it is now being thoroughly prospected. The several hundred claims having assessment work done on them, and those being regularly mined, have made such good showings of capital as readily obtainable for purpose of development. A railway branch five miles long and a railway station have been constructed; spurs lead direct to the principal mine openings.

A new town with 500 people to start on has been laid out. Modern expensive machinery, compressed air plants, power drills, tramways and hoisting machinery are being put in on several of the mines. All these things show confidence in the mineral resources of the camp, and this confidence is well bestowed, considering that every mine so far regularly worked has paid its expenses from the grass roots down, and that every prospect on which assessment work has been done shows good ore on the dump.

One premeditated feature is the great number of iron workings found on every slope and peak and the vast amount of iron float found everywhere on the hillsides. The camp would be very valuable for its iron alone, but this iron ore contains gold besides, and when the gold-bearing iron has been pierced with a tunnel or shaft, gold-bearing copper ore is encountered.

No mining region of similar extent has greater mineral possibilities, more eruptive dykes; porphyry and limestone contacts, garnet quartzite ledges, auriferous iron seams and immense copper showing that the Jarilla mountains, and they are not confined to one locality, but are thickly scattered over an area of twelve miles long and five miles wide. New York, Pennsylvania, St. Louis and Colorado capital in large amounts is already invested here. T. E. ROESSLER.

FIGHT BY ROUNDS.

Those who Attend the Plaza Concert Tomorrow Night will be Given a Report of the Fitzsimmons-Jeffries Mill.

Several enterprising individuals have arranged to receive a telegraphic report of the Fitzsimmons-Jeffries mill by rounds tomorrow night. The reports will be received in the plaza and by means of Dr. Bayer's splendid stereopticon the bulletins will be thrown upon the canvas, where they may be read with the greatest ease by the assembled throng.

Before the reports begin arriving over the wires the promoters of the scheme will give a stereopticon entertainment on local topics for the amusement of the crowd.

Police Court.

Outside of a few Mexicans fined for being drunk, there was nothing in police court this morning.

The town has not been troubled with anybody lately, excepting the bunco steers, and they have promised the police to suspend business and leave town.

Alamogordo is one year old today. Where the coyote and rattlesnake formerly held high carnival is now a city of fifteen hundred souls. The town sprang up in a night and promises to be an important factor in the history of the southwest.

If energy and push count for anything it will in five years have a population of 5000. Alamogordo will celebrate its birthday in a fitting manner.
